C

Cotton was once a major crop in Nowata County. First planted in 1825, cotton was grown on small farms and large plantations. The Civil War (1861-65) brought a temporary halt to cotton production.

By the mid 1870s, retributive law forbade Americans from leasing their lands to non-citizens or tenants. This led to the eviction of many cotton farmers. A cotton farmer began to plant the soil and planting the seeds. When the plants sprouted, the rows were once to prevent them from growing again later to control the crop.
